GLOBAL CAPITAL AND SLM ENTERPRISES JOIN FORCES TO EXPAND U.S. FINANCIAL SERVICES PORTFOLIOS AND SERVE CORPORATIONS SEEKING SUPPLIER DIVERSITY

CHICAGO (June 12) – Global Capital, a woman-owned equipment financing firm, announced today its newest services partner, SLM Enterprises, a service-disabled veteran-owned startup headquartered near Nashville, TN. The two companies are teaming to strengthen their service offerings in equipment financing and management, and to respond to market requests for diverse suppliers.

SLM Enterprises CEO Sean McNally launched the firm in August 2016 after returning home from a deployment in Afghanistan with an honorable discharge from the U.S. Army. SLM leverages Mr. McNally’s knowledge of equipment financing – he began his career at Global Capital before joining the Army – with the leadership skills he cultivated in the service and his training in heavy equipment maintenance technology.

Global Capital, founded in 1999 by Terri McNally, serves more than 65 Fortune 1000 companies and key mid-sized organizations. The firm is a proud member of the Women’s Business Enterprises National Council (WBENC) since 2000, and Ms. McNally, a global advocate for women entrepreneurs, was honored as a Woman of Distinction by the group earlier this year at its national conference in New Orleans.

The partnership brings full circle the younger McNally’s military and professional experience and the elder McNally’s commitment to entrepreneurship, diversity and mentoring. For customers, the partnership translates into

- Greater access to capital and flexible lease structures such as:
 - On- and off- balance sheet arrangements,
 - Fleet management,
 - Cost reduction and cost avoidance solutions,
 - Capital preservation,
 - 100 percent financing, and
 - Lower overall cost of ownership
- Proven leadership in equipment financing for pharmaceuticals, packaging, retail, medical manufacturing, insurance and telecommunications companies, and
- Natural introductions to diverse service providers.

“American corporations are offering veterans a seat at the table and looking for ways to integrate them into the work stream as employees and suppliers,” said SLM’s McNally. “With the new partnership between SLM Enterprises and Global Capital, we are able to provide world-class equipment financing while positively impacting our customers’ supplier diversity goals.”

Global Capital's McNally echoes her son, "Customers have been telling us that they were looking for veteran-owned businesses. Now we can make introductions with complete confidence in our SLM partner. For our customers, some of which we've served for almost 20 years, this is a positive addition to our capabilities. In my book, it's a win, win, win."
